Background

The web site content was agreed upon on the kick off meeting in Avezzano on 16 Sept 2016. Based on the initial input by the consortium partners, the coordinator developed a requirement document (Requirements for Website functionality and content of LIFE BITMAPs) 2016, which was used to further develop the graphical concept and functionality of the web site.

A smaller re-arrangement , just to reallocate some contents and rename some sections was executed in January 2018.

The project web site provides an integral element of the communication plan of the consortium and will be an essential tool for dissemination of the project results and a central point of contact within the consortium.

Purpose of the website

The LIFE BITMAPs website is accessible at www.lifebitmaps.eu

The site provides information on the project, updates on progress and results. In addition, the publicly available data generated by the consortium will also be hosted on the web-site.

The project website is considered as the initial point of contact of stakeholders and the general public. The site provides an integral element of the communication strategy. As the web presence of the project is vital for its success we consider as active communication channels the newsletter (general publication) will be distributed to the general mailing list (registered users of the website).

Structure

The LIFE BITMAPS website is structured in the following sections:

- Homepage
- Project
- Consortium - logos and hyperlinks to partner websites, Steering Board of the project;
- Dissemination News and Events – Project News; Events&Workshops
- Contacts
- Partners section
